SURVIVORS OF 'AMY TURNER' TELL GRAPHIC WRECK STORY

Ship 'Nose Dived,' With Captain And Wife Aboard

MATE SAVED LOG

Survivors Fourteen Days At Sea In Open Boat

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, May 3.—The four survivors of the British barquantine Amy Turner, which sank off Guam on March 27, arrived in Manila today from Surigao. They were Charles West, mate, working his passage as seaman, Cliff Cornish, boatswain, and V. Tracy and Frank Lindholm, seamen. They gave the following account of their experiences to Reuter's correspondent:

"We left Newcastle on March 21 for Manila with a cargo of coal. On March 23 there was heavy wind which developed into a typhoon and blew us out of our course. On March 26 there were raging seas and wind and all canvas was stripped.

"We floated helpless a mile or so off Guam and signaled the wireless station on the cliffs but there was no harbor or shelter in sight. We flew distress signals but could not attract attention. Within an hour or two Guam was lost to sight. That night the storm intensified, reaching its height on the morning of March 27.

"The boat was badly battered and the pumps were manned constantly. About noon the seams opened and the ship sank quickly. Two boats were launched but Captain Neils Nelison, accompanied by his wife, stood on the poop as the vessel nose-dived to the bottom and were never seen again. One boat with nine persons capsized and only one swimmer, Lindholm, reached the remaining boat which had three persons in it.

"We hoisted sail and West navigating headed for the Philippines. The boat had canned goods on board and the water held out well. On the 14th day in the open boat we caught a dolphin which we ate raw in order to preserve the provisions. The men stood watches, bailing and steering.

"On the 26th day the water was exhausted and there was one can of meat left. That night it rained and the next day we sighted land and made Port Surigao without clothes and exhausted."

The Constabulary cared for the men, gave them clothing and sent them to Manila. The British Consul has taken charge of them and is sending them back to Melbourne from where they all came and where the Amy Turner is registered. Charles West saved the ship's log and nothing else.

Cry Leads To Discovery Of Boys And Girls In Crates Destined For Shanghai "Child Slave" Market

(China Press Correspondence)

Soochow, May 3.—Bound, gagged and crated in two large packing cases thirteen little boys and girls, ranging from seven to thirteen years of age, were discovered imprisoned on board a Chinese junk here today when one of the little captives managed to make his cries heard.

The children held in the living tomb of packing cases were held on board a junk lying off the Chongmen and their discovery clears up a mysterious wave of kidnapping that has swept the city for the past two weeks. The captives were destined to be sent to Shanghai to be sold as child slaves.

WOMAN ARRESTED

It was found that the two packing cases were in the custody of an ancient crone who promptly was placed under arrest, but the fragmentary reports of disclosures she is said to have made to the authorities reveal the existence of an organised band of kidnappers who have been operating in Soochow to supply the demand of the Shanghai 'market' both for young girls and young boys.

A searching investigation in which foreign aid has been enlisted has been started to bring to justice members of this organisation, though it is not believed that the aged woman held captive can supply much information of value on this search.

BOLD OPERATIONS

Records of the authorities show that the activities of the kidnappers have been widespread, for reports of the disappearance of children have been coming in at the rate of three or four a week in recent months. While in large measure the children kidnapped have been lured from humble homes it has been found also that not a few have been taken from parents in fairly well-to-do circumstances.

The aged woman prisoner has revealed that the children packed into the two boxes on the junk were to be trans-shipped to another vessel, but she has professed ignorance of the identity of this vessel and has said she does not know in what part of Soochow creek the shifting of the two boxes would take place. She said that she was told that she would be informed when the time came to move the boxes to the other boat.

CREW PROTEST INNOCENCE

Members of the crew of the junk from which the boxes were taken all have united in protesting complete ignorance of the real contents of the two cases, saying they had been accepted as ordinary shipments of goods destined for Shanghai and search for the shippers of the boxes so far has brought no tangible results.

When taken from the boxes the children were in a deplorable state of fright, though physically otherwise they had suffered no harm. For the most part it is said that the children have been able to reveal but little of value in the search for the kidnappers. The aged woman in charge of the boxes insisted in the course of one examination that the children were destined for happy circumstances, for she declared they would be sold to wealthy families to be adopted as sons and daughters, but the authorities, possessing more than an inkling of the human traffic from Soochow whose ancient fame is that its women are the most beautiful of all China, hold another view of the fate that was in store for the rescued little ones.

COTTON GAGS

When the boxes were opened wads of cotton held in place by bands of cloth were found in the mouths of all the children and with arms bound behind them it was seen that they had been packed closely together on their feet in the two cases. In the corners of the two boxes small holes had been bored to supply air for the captives.

The outcry that led to the discovery was made by a little boy who had contrived to dislodge the binding around his head enabling him to eject the cotton from his mouth and then cry out.

SZECHUEN QUAKE DEAD NOW MORE THAN 3 THOUSAND

Peking Gets Meagre Details; Relief Measures Started

Peking, May 3.—Only the most meagre additional reports of the widespread disaster wrought by the earthquake in Szechuen have been received since the first report came in of the disaster which has laid waste an area said to have a radius of over a hundred and fifty miles.

One message indicates that the original estimate that five hundred had been killed will be found to be below the actual number who perished as hundreds have succumbed from injuries they received under falling buildings.

Besides sending out the general appeal for aid little or nothing is being done by the Government to deal with the disaster and it is probable that the thousands known to be homeless and destitute largely must be left to shift for themselves or depend on what aid may be given from cities in the province.

A serious factor in providing relief is the remoteness of the Luhow district stricken by the earthquake after a volcanic eruption on the Thibetan border. In the original message asking aid that was sent to Peking by Gen. Chen Hsin-ling, Commissioner of Border Defense, it was reported that three thousand were suffering injuries in a score of villages in which buildings were razed.

Though temporary hospitals have been brought into service in Yanteh and Pepi it is realised that hundreds of the sufferers must go without adequate medical treatment.

Peking, May 4.—Gen. Chen Hsi-lin in a later report says the number now known to have been killed in the Szechuen earthquake will exceed three thousand. Hospitals and kitchens have been opened to provide for the wounded and destitute.

Singapore Base Pleases Australia

Melbourne, May 4.—The Melbourne Age says that the decision to establish a strong naval base at Singapore is a significant change in Imperial policy which gives Australia intense satisfaction. Britain for many years, the journal adds, has been strangely indifferent to her interests in the Pacific. The Age declares that it is absurd to suggest that the Singapore base is a menace to any other Port.

Domestic Bonds Showing Strength

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 4.—A very remarkable feature in connection with the present political and financial crisis and the war rumors is the strength of the domestic bonds which are rising rapidly daily. The Chinese say that this is due partly to an impression that the Government is unlikely to attempt to raid the customs surplus set aside for them at least till Sir Francis Aglen returns but it is chiefly due to heavy buying by General Chin Yun-ping and Mr. Pan Fu who are hoping to return to politics as Premier and Minister of Finance respectively and speculating the bonds in connection with it.

FLIERS MAKE TRIP ACROSS U.S. CONTINENT WITHOUT STOP

WORLD RECORD

Is First Continuous Ocean To Ocean Flight

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

San Diego, Cal. May 5.—Lieutenants J. A. Macready and O. G. Kelly of the United States Army Air Service landed their monoplane at Rockwell Field here today after completing the first trans-continental non-stop flight across the United States

The plane left Roosevelt Field at Hemstead, Long Island, New York, carrying 780 gallons of gasoline, 32 gallons of oil, and 25 gallons of water for the 425 horsepower Liberty motor last night. It was intended to make the non-stop flight in less than 32 hours. The plane with pilots weighed 10,850 pounds.

BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Lieutenants Macready and Kelly who made the record non-stop flight as described in THE CHINA PRESS dispatches, made a flight that has never before been accomplished. They were already the holders of many aviation records in speed, long distance flying and sustained flight and with the successful completion of the hazardous trans-continental journey are the first men to fly across the continent in one 'hop.'

On the last day of December, 1921, Edward Stinson and Lloyd Bertaud, civilian instructors in the army, set a world's record for sustained flying at Roosevelt Field on Long Island, when they flew for 26 hours, 12 minutes and 56 seconds in a Larsen all-metal plane driven by a Bavarian engine. They continued flying until the oil in the lubrication tanks froze.

On October 5-6, 1922, Lieuts. Macready and Kelly flew continuously for 35 hours, 18 minutes and 30 seconds over Rockwell Field, Coronado, Cal., exceeding the former record by approximately 9 hours. They flew an American plane with a Liberty 400 horsepower motor, and intended making a trans-continental flight when they took off. Fog compelled them to continue flying in a restricted area, however, so they stayed up flying around and around the field until they ran out of fuel.

HOLD RECORD NOW

On November 3-4 last year Lieuts. Macready and Kelly again attempted a non-stop trans-continental flight and flew from San Diego to Indianapolis—5-7 of the distance across the continent—without stopping before being forced to land. In an endeavor to keep the engine going when a cracked cylinder allowed all their water to leak out the daring flyers poured soup, coffee and milk, their food supplies, into the engine.

The nearest record to the American flyers was made in October, 1922, when Lieuts. Bossoutrot and Drouhin flew for 34 hours, 14 minutes and 7 1-5 seconds—about one hour less—over Paris, France.

Flights have been made across the American continent, but never without a stop. Calbraith Rodgers, one of the pioneer American flyers, flew from New York to Pasadena, Cal., in 1911 in 18 days, the first to fly across the country. His longest flight was 133 miles. Lieut. J. H. Doolittle of the American army also made the flight from Palbo Beach, Fla. to San Diego, Cal. on September 4-5, 1922, in 21 hours and 20 minutes actual flying time with one stop at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, to replenish his fuel.

DOG AND PONY SHOW TODAY AT RACE CLUB

250 Dogs And Many Ponies Entered For Blue Ribbons

The promoters of the Dog and Pony Show to be held at the Race Club today have taken on a task which has threatened to be too big in view of the hurried arrangements that have had to be made in less than three weeks.

It was only intended to be an experiment with a view to seeing whether it would be worth while arranging for a larger show annually, but the entries have exceeded all expectations. In the dog classes over 40 different breeds have been entered, not counting the several varieties of such as pointers, setters and retrievers. These have been arranged in 19 classes. The total entries, with dogs not for competition, number 250.

The pony classes are even stronger by comparison. It is so difficult to get more than about eight riders in steeplechases that it was thought there would not be more than about a dozen in any of the jumping classes, but evidently something of the passion for ring jumping in Europe has spread to Shanghai, for the total entries number over 100. The biggest class is that for gentlemen's jumping, in which there will be 34 competitors and the Champion jump is very little behind this, with 26 entries (ladies and gentlemen). For the ladies' jump there is the very satisfactory entry of 10 ponies, mostly for individual riders. Thirteen are nominated as gentlemen's hacks and 10 as ladies' mounts. The latter will be ridden by the ladies themselves. A keen competition may be expected in the children's hacks class, as there will be eight youngsters (boys and girls) of 14 years and under out to capture Major Keylock's prizes.

The Show is so much bigger than had been anticipated that the committee specially request that all exhibitors and contestants will have their dogs and ponies ready to respond immediately when called, as it will be impossible to allow any delay. All dogs must be brought in at the Mohawk and Weihaiwei Road entrance between 10.30 and 11.30 a.m. for veterinary inspection and will then be taken by the stewards to their stalls. Judging will begin promptly at 12 noon and all classes must be ready then. No times have been fixed, but the four rings will be kept filled all the time. Dogs must not be taken away before 6 p.m. and exhibitors must make their own arrangements about feeding. The pony classes will be called at 2.30 p.m., the ponies assembling on the mud course, where saddlecloths will be issued.

Tiffins and teas will be served in the public refreshment rooms.

U.S. EXPERTS ARE PUZZLED BY BRITAIN'S NAVAL POLICY

What Does "Command Of The Seas" Mean?

SINGAPORE BASE

Americans See Some Deviation From Washington Pact

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Washington, May 3.—The parliamentary announcement from London that "the command of the seas" is the ultimate aim of the British government is accepted in American naval circles to mean that Britain plans to return to her traditional basic policy, and contrasts are being drawn between this recent declaration of intention and the theory subscribed to at the Washington Conference, the official minutes of which reveal that British delegates adhered unequivocally to the principle of limitation to a point whereat the British and American navies would be equal.

American naval authorities contend that under the terms of the Washington agreement there could be no naval superiority vested in either country which would give "command of the seas."

There is no disposition in American naval circles to criticise the British appropriation for the building of a naval base at Singapore, because Singapore is outside of the one hundred and tenth meridian, which was fixed at the conference as the limit of insular fortifications.

The Pacific has heretofore been looked upon as a possible field of conflict because of the divergent policies of the United States and Japan, but the completion of the British program is looked upon here as definitely drawing Great Britain into the Far Eastern picture, and since the new base will not conflict with Anglo-American policy in any way strategists are inclined to study the Singapore proposal almost solely with reference to its relation to Japan.

At the same time the American experts are calling attention to the difference between the proposed British expenditure at Singapore, amounting to some fifty million dollars, to the American estimates for the defense of Hawaii, amounting to forty-eight millions, of which but half a million has been appropriated.

France Insists Germany Must Give Up Passive Resistance First Of All

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, May 3.—The Temps, commenting on the three objections raised to the German reparations counter-proposals in the communique issued by the Cabinet, namely, owing to the conditions laid down in them, the absence of guarantees and the insufficiency of the sums offered, says that the conditions laid down by Germany comprise continuation of passive resistance and the evacuation of the Ruhr before payment.

The absence of guarantees arises mainly from the fact that Germany completely ignores the Treaty of Versailles and claims the right henceforth to forbid all taking of pledges and all sanctions. Finally, the insufficiency of the sums offered is manifest at first sight when it is considered that for France alone the cost of reparation of damages already paid exceeds Frs. 42,000,000,000, while the amount remaining to be paid is approximately Frs. 44,000,000,000, without speaking of pensions.

In addition the Temps points out the emptiness of the German claim that they will be able to procure the sum for reparations by way of an international loan. "For the four months since the Reich declared a sort of war on France, its financial administration has been such that not only a foreign loan but an internal loan is impossible. As long as the German policy of resistance lasts no settlement of reparations will be either negotiable diplomatically or realisable in practice."

The Journal des Debats expresses the same idea of no credit for the Reich as long as passive resistance lasts. In order that German credit may be re-established there is only a single way, namely, the Ludendorffs of the Wilhelmstrasse must disappear, and good Ministers must put an end to the present policy, establish a serious budget and order the immediate resumption of work in the Ruhr with all the intensiveness possible."

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, May 3.—The Belgian press has unfavorably received the German proposals. The Temps says: "Brussels is perfectly well aware that the German proposals are intended to prepare a diplomatic offensive in the United States and Britain, but Belgians are asking themselves what will be the attitude of the British Cabinet. The best reply is to continue calmly and coolly the Franco-Belgian action in the Ruhr."

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, May —With the exception fo the liberal organs, such as the Westminster Gazatte, all the British papers severely criticise the German offers.

The Daily News confesses that it is deceived in the German note and deplores its clumsiness.

The Daily Graphic states that it is not surprised that France does not accept the German offer, which is insufficient and will satisfy no creditor.

The Morning News fears that the German note may be a new ballon d'essai with a view to sounding the allies and trying to create greater divisions between trem.

Under the heading "Impudence," the Daily Mail states that there is nothing more cynically insolent than the German note and that it is typical production of German trickery.

The Times declares that the German offer does not solve the problem of reparations. It is stupidly drawn up, gives only the vaguest guarantees and presents it with a clumsiness which is liable to irritate all French susceptibilities.

The Daily Telegraph characterises the document as "diplomatic asininity," in which it is impossible to see the least inclination to sincerity on the part of Germany.

(French Wireless)

Paris, May 3.—The Council of Ministers (French Cabinet) is unanimous in considering the German proposals as unacceptable because of the insufficiency of guarantees for the proposed conditions as well as in view of the inadequacy of the figure offered for reparations.

The President of the Council (M. Poincare) discussed with the Paris Government to send to the Allies the French reply to the German Government and a communique relative thereto.

The Temps returning to the three objections raised against the German proposals in the communique of the Council of Ministers, recalls that the conditions set forth by Germany comprise a continuation of passive resistance and the evacuation of the Ruhr previous to payment.

The absence of guarantees arises especially from the fact that Germany completely disregards the treaty of Versailles and pretends to forbid forthwith all taking of securities as well as any sanction.

After all, the inadequacy of the figures offered flashes into prominence when it is noted that for France alone the reparation of damages already paid exceeds 42 milliards francs, while the figure for damages remaining to be paid is near to 44 milliards, not including the pensions.

In addition to that the Temps shows the inability of the German claim to procure sums purposed for the payment of reparations by means of an international loan:

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, May 3.—The newspapers express by no means unqualified approval of the German offer. The Democratic and Socialist journals consider that the offer is the best possible at present but the organs of the Right profess dismay at the immensity of the offer and accuse the Government of weakness.

All the newspapers agree that that passive resistance in the Ruhr must continue until an agreement has been reached.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 3.—The majority of the morning papers are of the opinion that the German offer is a possible basis for the settlement of reparations and should not be brushed aside, with the exception of the New York Tribune, which declares that the German Note shows that injured innocence and illimitable self-pity are still the foundation-stone of the German attitude.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 3.—The draft French reply to the German Note has been despatched to Brussels. It declares that the offer is unacceptable, above all owing to Herr Cuno's preliminary condition for negotiations, namely, evacuation of the Ruhr. The reply asserts that the Allies intend to keep the pledge which after three years' fruitless patience they have seen fit to take. It points out that the offer gives no definite guarantee of Germany's good faith.

The Government will tomorrow communicate the text of its reply to London and Rome.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 3.—The German proposals caused a depression in the foreign exchange market today, which finished a little steadier.

Marks slumped to 180,000 to 185,000 and closed at 174,000 to 178,000. French francs were finally quoted at 69.75 and Belgian francs at 80.65.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 3.—The Cabinet today decided that the German proposals were unacceptable owing to the conditions laid down in them, the absence of guarantees and also the insufficiency of the sums offered.

OFFICIAL NAMED TO STOP LOCAL OPIUM TRAFFIC

Defence Commissioner Picks Mr. Wu Sung-shou To Suppress Importation

In compliance with the requests of the various local organisations to adopt more stringent measures for the prohibition of the importation of opium and other narcotic drugs, the local Defence Commissioner, General Ho Feng-lin, yesterday appointed Mr. Wu Sung-shou Commissioner for Opium Supression in the District of Sungkiang and Shanghai.

Mr. Wu has been an anti-opium enthusiast for some time and possesses, it is understood, considerable knowledge of the methods adopted by traffickers in the drug business.

The question of opium prohibition was the subject of a telegram addressed recently to the Peking Government by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai. The message stated that despite of the corruption of the Manchu Dynasty, prohibition was strictly carried out. Today on account of the disorder in the provinces, the rules had not been properly observed and it was suggested that a special commissioner be appointed for the work.

It is understood that the Chamber recently received a cable from Sir John Jordan suggesting that it call the intention of the Government to the matter.

CHARGES AGAINST CHINESE POLICE ARE WITHDRAWN

Detectives Involved In Alleged Torture Case Are Freed

The charge against the Chinese detectives accused in connection with the alleged illtreatment of Loh Tse-hwa while the latter was a prisoner at Hongkew police station was withdrawn in the Mixed Court yesterday morning on application by Loh's counsel, Mr. R. N. Macleod.

The matter came up before Assessor Mead and Magistrate Li and Mr. W. S. Fleming appeared for the two detectives. Woo Zer-yung and Yang Tse-shang. Mr. Macleod in his motion asked leave to withdraw the charges on the ground that the only evidence which the complainant could offer was that which was given in the British Court in the proceedings against Detective Sub-Inspector Gabbutt and Detective Sergeant Balchin, who were acquitted. This evidence included the allegations made against the two foreign officers and in view of their acquittal the complainant could not properly proceed with the same evidence in a prosecution against their subordinates.

The Assessor said that in the opinion of that Court they knew nothing of what had happened at the British Supreme Court. They knew nothing whatever about it, but if Counsel said he had no evidence which the Mixed Court would accept against the defendants then they were willing that the charge should be withdrawn.

Mr. Macleod replied that he had no evidence to put before the Court. He had given his reasons in the motion, and so he made application for leave to withdraw the case as he could not possibly proceed.

The Assessor said it should be clearly understood that that Court was not allowing the case to be withdrawn because of what had transpired at the British Court.

Mr. Macleod agreed and added that he could not proceed.

Mr. Fleming consented to that course of action.

The Assessor then announced that the charge against the defendants was withdrawn.

CANADIANS PROTEST

(Reuter's Service)

Toronto, May 3.—An impressive meeting was held here today to protest against the bill before Parliament imposing further restrictions on Chinese immiyrants. The meeting urged the Government to delay the bill, which has passed the second reading, and to make further investigations regarding the whole subject.

The chief speaker, Sir Edmund Walker, the President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, strongly advocated the establishment of friendly relations and better understanding.

The Toronto Globe declares that all Canadian relations with China should be characterised by respect and a perfect recognition of equality.

CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN JULY AT PEITAIHO

Bible Study And Vacation Meeting To Continue One Month

With its several spacious buildings now fully completed, four of which are conveniently arranged and well-equipped for housing guests, the Conference Plant at Peitaiho is ready for the conference to be held there beginning the latter part of July and lasting for one month, according to announcement yesterday.

Every provision for the health and comfort of guests has been made in the construction of the new buildings. The extensive grounds of the plant, about 55 mow, command an ocean frontage and with fine shade trees and vegetation, afford delightful surroundings. Matters of sanitation, ventilation and light have received careful consideration and kitchens and accessory buildings thoroughly screened. Shaded verandahs, pagoda tea-house, an auditorium built entirely of cement (with flat pavillion roof adapted to holding sunset and moonlight meetings under the open sky) are some of the attractive features of the plant.

For this summer's conference, a committee, consisting of Miss Ruth Paxson, Miss Edith Davis and Dr. J. W. Lowrie, is in charge. Friends desirous of Bible Study and spiritual and physical recreation are very welcome to attend. There is no charge for accommodation but a daily rate of $1.15 to $1.25 will be charged for board. (Special rates for children) Residence for a longer period than the time of the Conference may be arranged.

MONTH'S PROGRAM

The month's program is divided into three sections of one week each, spaced by two days for rest so that those, for whom it is an only holiday, may not become too tired. Missionaries who have been especially successful in National work will be present as speakers. Also from the home land, Dr. Robert Wilson of Princeton, Rev. J. H. Hunter and Miss Rouzee of California, and W. O. Carver of Louisiana will all be in China to assist in the General Conference program, throughout China this summer. At least two of these speakers will take part in the Peitaiho Conference.

Also a special feature will be a regular program for children which will include Bible teaching, music, special work and athletics, which will all be under the supervision of Miss Jeannie Woodbridge.

Attention is called to the splendid new trains on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway which have fine third class sleeping berths. This greatly facilitates travel, as small parties may secure a third-class coupe affording very comfortable travel at little expense. We mention this here in order to remind those interested that travel to Peitaiho is now within the reach of all.

This Conference is for foreigners only, and, as the accommodation is limited registrations should be made at once with J. H. Blackstone, 4 Quinsan Gardens.

HUMILIATION DAY TO BE OBSERVED BY MASS MEETING

May 9, the day when Yuen Shih-kai accepted Japan's notorious 21 demands in 1915, will be observed by local Chinese public organisations with a mass meeting to be held at the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce at 2 o'clock. Preparations for the meeting were made yesterday at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Citizen's Convention on Japanese Diplomatic Affairs, which consists of representatives of practically all recognised bodies.

A book on the 21 demands, comprising two large volumes with a dozen illustrations, will formally make its appearance on that day. It will be sold by the Chien Ching Tang publishers, Shantung Road.

Sixty Boy Scouts will maintain order at the chamber meeting. The managers of the local theaters have been requested, by the committee either to stop their performances for the day or to stage some play appropriate to the occasion.

British Air Chief May Call Parley To Limit Building

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 3.—Following a question in the House of Commons today dealing with the relative strengths of the air fleets of Britain, France, Italy and the United States, Mr. P. A. Harris, Liberal Member for Bethnal Green, asked whether the Government had considered calling a conference for the limitation of air forces on the same lines as the Washington Conference.

Sir Samuel Hoare, the Secretary of State for Air, replied: "Yes: a proposal of that kind has always been in my mind."

Party Of Seventeen Arrives Here From Osaka

A party of 17 Japanese woman tourists arrived from Osaka yesterday. A lengthy declaration was made by the tourists and addressed to the Chinese women in Shanghai upon their arrival. The message asserted that the ill-feeling existing between Japan and China was caused by their respective militarists and diplomats and that the tourists came to Shanghai with nothing but the utmost friendliness and goodwill.

The visitors stated that they had come with the hope of studying the cultural qualities of their sisters and were not interested in politics. They remembered that their ancestors, 1,300 years ago, had braved death and danger to come to China and learned much from the Tang Dynasty, for which they were grateful even today. China and Japan should work hand in hand for the peace of the Orient, the Japanese ladies said, and show to the nations of the world the grandeur of Oriental civilisation, which surpasses in many respects that of the Occident.

The Dog Watch

By Westa

THE April number of the "Golfers Magazine," published in Chicago, contains an interesting article on golf, as played in Shanghai. The article, which is illustrated with photographs, was written by Mr. James W. Bennett, who is a member of the faculty at St John's university.

The photographs with which his interesting article is embellished add greatly to its literary value and must have carried conviction to readers of the magazine in far off America, where the merely printed word concerning golf or anything else in Shanghai would be accepted, doubtless, with some skepticism.

The Cricket Club committeemen imbued as they are with the spirit of British sportsmanship, should teach that gawky club-house of theirs some manners, so that hereafter when a photographer comes around to take a picture of the modest little Golf Club pavilion it will know better than to push itself in front of the camera in such a rude, ungentlemanly manner.

THE next picture with which this article is ornamented is a likeness of one of the water buffaloes at Kiangwan which, in the words of the author, "wander at will over the course ....making it highly disconcerting for the golfer to have to play a mashie over one of these fierce-horned but sad-eyed ruminants in order to reach the flag."

Alas, too true! Full well do Shanghai golfers know the terrors associated with a miscalculated trajectory when playing mashie shots over one of these fierce-horned and deceivingly sad-eyed ruminants!

Other pictures, which are best described by their captions, include —A Chinese Grave, just ten feet off the fairway at the Kiangwan course.

—The eighteenth hole (at the Recreation Ground) with Chinese theater in the background.

"The perfervid Shanghai golfer (the article continues) does not think of permitting Race Week—a small matter like twenty thousand or more racing fans, steeple chasing, jockeys, attendants—to deter him from his Saturday afternoon game. He plays! But he plays under hazards undreamed of by ordinary men.

AMERICAN GOLF TEAM LIFTS OLD ENGLISH TROPHY

Ouimet And Dr. Willing Tied For First, Gardner Third

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Sandwich, England, May 3.—The thirty-fifth competition for the famous St. George's Challenge up, resulted in a victory for the American golf team now in England to compete in the British amateur championship and in the Walker cup matches. This means that the famous cup will leave England for the first time since it was put up by the Royal St. George's club in 1888.

The large field, which included many of the most prominent amateur golfers in England, was led by Francis Ouimet, former American Open and Amateur champion, and Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Oregon, each of whom turned it cards of 153 for the two days' play. Robert Gardner, of Chicago, captain of the American team and a former American amateur champion, was third with 154. Ouimet and Dr. Willing will decide ownership of the cup by an eighteen hole playoff tomorrow.

The 153 score of the two Americans has been bettered only twice in the history of the competition, in 1911, when E. M. Smith won it with a score of 148, and in 1914, when J. Graham, of the Royal Liverpool golf club was returned winner with a total of 146.

The American players are entered in the British Amateur championship, which begins at Deal next week.

attempting a morning round before the racing would begin. As luck would have it his lie demanded a husky mid iron shot. He had been playing par golf up to that point and he tells that he saw visions of an unofficial record. The trajectory of the ball was over the race track; a short shot meant that he might have to spoon the ball out of the dust in the middle of the track. Just as he was preparing to fire away his attention was diverted by a wild, barbaric blare of noise. Down the track came a procession of Buddhist priests, whanging away on cymbals, beating skin drums, tap-tap-tapping on small, peachwood bells. They were followed by a long string of jockeys, all Chinese of course. The procession stopped and camped between Roberts and the now elusive green. A series of incantations were begun. The White Fox spirit and its kindred devils was exercised on the spot. Each jockey with money enough to pay for the immunisation was rendered immune, then and there, to all such devils as losing a race, a fall at the hurdles, or being left at the post.

"The priests chanted, intoned, whanged and sang. In lulling waves the Oriental Grand Opera went on. The day was warm. Roberts declared that he began to feel sleepy. Roberts sat down and propped himself against a grave mound. When he awoke the procession was gone. Likewise his luck and his chances of a record that day."

IT certainly was tough luck for Rev. Roberts that his shot across the race track had to be spoiled by all those Chinese jockeys and Buddhist priests; but it was fortunate, nevertheless, that he didn't attempt the shot anyway, and fall short, for then he would have been up against the rather difficult problem of finding some loophole in the out-of-bounds rule under which he could have hopped over into the track and spooned it out of the dust. It would also be interesting to see a player of Rev. Roberts' caliber take a spoon, either to dig his ball out of the dust in a race track, or to get the rest of the way to a green after failing to reach it with his mid-iron.

"The Hongkew course (continues the article) is also excellent, and is out of the ordinary in that it has been designed as a junior course. There the boys and girls of the international settlement all foregather. The grounds are laid out with a weather eye for the shorter driving power of the city's youth. . . . And some of the youngsters there are going to make golfing history; for, after all, such is the only way to learn the game—in one's youth."

* *

THAT ought to be encouraging to such little shavers as Charlie Hopkins and his old side kick, Charlie Richards, both of whom are precocious youths, Hoppy particularly. By the time Charlie gets a couple more inches added to his present six foot three inch stature he ought to begin to start to commence to make some golfing history. (Personally I hope he doesn't delay his start beyond next Monday, at which time he and I are scheduled to meet Messrs. Langley-Smith and Mills in a play-off of the Gaines Cup tie, if we can persuade the ground keeper at Kiangwan to clear the fairways of the fierce-horned ruminants long enough to enable us to reach a decision.)

The little lads at the Junior golf club, coming in after a round on their little sawed off course with their little sawed off clubs, to enjoy their refreshments, consisting of ice cream and lemonade, afterwards to be escorted home by their amahs! A truly charming picture, hey?

The article, as stated, is indeed interesting, both in the literary treatment and in its marshalling of facts. We learn from it, inter alia, that "Shanghai has from fifteen to twenty thousand golfers;" that "a goodly number of homes have their one, two, three or nine hole courses;" that "the city itself has four regulation 18 hole courses;" that "grandstands full of racing fans howl angrily as some adipose golfer scuttles out to rescue an arrant golf ball—squarely in the face of an onrush of Chinese jockeys, racing for a purse of five thousand taels," and that "at Kiangwan the comity of nations sometimes gets skeegeed; as, for example, when some Nipponese from Tokio defeats an Englishman or American."

* * *

MR. BENNETT, it may be added, is an instructor in fiction writing at the Jessfield school—and if the authorities at St. John's have any doubts concerning his qualifications for that position this article certainly should dispel them.

GRANT PETITION TO WIND UP REISS BROS. AFFAIRS

A. R. Lowe And E. M. Ross Named As Special Managers

A petition on behalf of Reiss Brothers, Ltd., for the appointment of the official receiver attached to the court as provisional liquidator was granted by Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court yesterday.

The application was made under Section 149 of the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908. The appointment would come up again when the petition for the winding up of the company was presented. The petition to wind up the company was presented under Section 129 of the Act of 1908.

Counsel read the petition which had been presented, which set out that the company was incorporated as a limited company in May 1920, with the registered office in Manchester, England. The capital was £1,250,000, one pound shares, but the shares sold were 668,404, and the capital paid up was £668,404. Large sums of money were owing in China and could not be paid.

Mr. A. M. Cannon filed an affidavit as acting manager in support of the petition, and urged that such action was necessary in order to conserve the assets of the company in China, and, in the interest of the general body of creditors. It was requested that the official receiver would appoint Mr. A. R. Lowe as special manager for Hongkong and Canton and Mr. E. M. Ross as special manager for this part of China. The petition to wind up the company in England was filed in Manchester on April 25, and apparently the same application was made there as Counsel now made.

The official receiver was made provisional manager, and he cabled to Messrs. Lowe and Ross intimating that they were to act as his agents in China. He did not outline anything, but he had been asked to do this.

The Judge said the Court had received intimation of the appointment of Mr. Ross. It was obvious that this application should be granted so as to guard the assets of the company in China.

Mr. A. Covey, as official receiver, then read a petition for the appointment of Messrs. A. R. Lowe and E. M. Ross as special managers, they were to have the assistance of Messrs. Holyoak and Massey, the salaries of the staff for April were to be paid, authority was to be given the special manager here to raise Tls. 50,000, he was to sub-let the premises on monthly tenancy, employ barristers and solicitors, as well as clerks, engineers, etc.

Mr. Wright stated that the Hongkong Court had granted similar powers to Mr. Lowe, and the sum allowed there was $30,000. A telegram was also to hand from the Official Receiver in Manchester, stating that he approved of the assistance of Messrs. Holyoak and Massey being obtained and authorised the policy adopted generally.

The petition was granted.

Church Work In Korea Progresses

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 4.—The Bishop of London, presiding at the annual meeting of the Korean Mission, read a letter reporting steady progress in church work there. He believed that if an income of £10,000 were assured for a few years, the Church would become self-supporting and could rely on the native-born ministry to carry on by themselves. The Bishop said that there were now 5,000 Korean and 500 Japanese Christians in Korea but the work of the missionaries was confined to an area of the size of Wales.

"I am the Woman You Want!"

This sudden cry was a bombshell to the static atmosphere of the courtroom in which the most unusual trial society had ever followed was drawing to a close. Chaos! The mob was hungry for sensational developments. Who was this mysterious beautiful woman who had remained silent until the certainty of a drab life behind prison bars was staring Richard Burton in the face?

She held his freedom, happiness, and honor in her hands! What would she say?

The Correct Feeding of Infants

No attempt to provide a correct system for the progressive feeding of Infants was ever successfully carried out until the "Allenburys" Series of Infants Foods were introducted. So successful have the "Allenburys" Foods Nos. 1, 2 and 3 proved, that whenever a child is denied the privilege of the mother's milk they are indispensable.

Difficulties Of Gold Franc Case Are Considered

Peking, May 3.—At today's Cabinet meeting, the gold franc case with regard to the payment of the French share of the Boxer Indemnity was again brought up for discussion.

Premier Chang Shou-tseng read a telegram which he had just received from Mr. Chen Lu, Minister at Paris, stating that the French Foreign Office has declared that in the event of China refusing the demand for payment in gold francs, the French Government will nullify the Sino-French Pact of 1916 and oppose the increase in the Chinese tariff and the conclusion of a big loan.

It was resolved to refer Mr. Chen's telegram to Parliament for consideration and to urge the legislators to settle the question at issue at an early date.

Bank Of China's Vice-Director Is Pamphlet's Target

Peking, May 3.—Mr. Yu Chantsang, a shareholder of the Bank of China, has issued a lengthy statement in pamphlet form, against the Vice-Director of the Bank, charging embezzlement and corruption.

The statement warns the shareholders to take immediate action for the protection of their interests. An interpellation has been addressed to the Government by Mr. Kuo Tung, a member of the House of Representatives, concerning certain doubtful items of the accounts of the Bank of China, which have been brought to his attention.

Wellington Koo Again Refuses To Assume Post

Peking, May 3.—In an interview, Premier Chang Shou-tseng urged Dr. Wellington Koo to assume office as Minister of Foreign Affairs, to which post he was recently appointed by mandate. Dr. Koo was informed that his services were needed in connection with the proposed conclusion of a Consortium loan to the amount of $30,000,000. Dr. Koo, however, refused.

Mr. Shen Shui-lin, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, who recently tendered his resignation, owing to the lack of funds for the payment of Chinese diplomats abroad, has been prevailed upon to remain in office for another ten days.

The Search For Sunken Gold

WHEN the auxiliary cruiser Laurentic was sunk off the north Irish coast on January 1917, about $25,000,000 in gold bullion which she was bringing to New York went down with her. The British Admiralty two years ago undertook to recover this sunken treasure and last September at the end of the year's work it reported that it had salvaged about $8,000,000 of the gold.

The Admiralty's salvage steamship Racer is to be sent out this summer in an effort to bring up the remaining millions. The exact value of the gold which yet lies buried with the wreck is not known, for the amount which was recovered by divers soon after the vessel was sunk is estimated all the way from a few hundred thousand to $5,000,000.

Several attempts to salvage the gold during the war were frustrated by German submarines. The fact that these craft were so frequently reported near the scene of the wreck was no doubt responsible for the story that the Germans retrieved part of the sunken treasure.

The wreck lies off the Donegal coast in about twenty fathoms of water. Divers report that it is rapidly sinking into the sand and that after another year it will become submerged to such an extent as to make any further salvage work useless. The Admiralty is thus likely to abandon its search after this year's attempt to bring up the Laurentic's treasure.

The method employed by the Admiralty in recovering this sunken gold has been of especial interest to marine treasure hunters. It has made use of a number of new inventions for supplying air to submarine workers, for clearing away sand from the wreck and for bringing safely to the surface any article of value found. The divers thus work with more security than in the past, and the Admiralty reports that so far its operations have been carried on without loss of a life.

The work on the wreck of the Laurentic comes near to setting a record in British salvage operations. This success, it is said, will lead to other attempts to bring up treasures which went down with vessels sunk in the world war. It has already had the effect of inducing leaders of private expeditions to apply the same methods, in exploring wrecks which in the past have baffled the divers. One of these reported is a new British expedition to recover a sunken treasure from Tobermory Bay on the coast of Scotland and another is a French expedition to retrieve a store of gold plate and coin from the old Spanish galleon Tuscany.

Salary's Place Is In The Home

A REVOLUTIONARY step has been taken in New Orleans. The city is going to send the pay of its employees to their homes instead of handing it to them in person. "The money belongs in the home," says Commissioner [illegible], "and I am going to do my best to put it there."

[illegible] will denounce reform as czarism, tyranny, unconstitutional rights and downright infamy. But many a wife will cheer till the dining room rafters ring. The check envelope will be delivered to her and she will open it "without thinking" or because she mistook "Mr." for "Mrs." Any reason is a good one when it is wise for a wife to open her husband's letters. And she will find a way to get the paper properly indorsed.

There will be no more joint jubilation on pay day for the married employees of the fine old city of New Orleans, no shaking of the dice, no ordering of one more round of whatever has succeeded Sazarac cocktails in the City Care Forgot, no singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," no slipping away to the racetrack to "see if I can't double it."

"He was a good fellow when he had it"—but he can't be a good fellow, in the ancient but not necessarily honorable sense of the phrase, when his wife has "it." Instead of spreading it on the bar, she will transform it into receipted bills, shoes for the boy, a better home and something in the bank.

The men who come under the new ruling are described as indignant. We cannot share their chagrin or their grief. The money is going direct to the business manager of the most important business concern on earth—the home.

Mr. Google was reticent concerning Spark Plug's chance to win the Champions—being bashful and unassuming by nature—but did say that if any pony won the Champions it would be Spark Plug. Mr. Google who, as is well known, never boasts, said that he also had already purchased the winning bit of paper in the race and is consequently tipping off his friends that it would be throwing away money for them to buy any sweeps. KISSES .....

And there's many a smile that has made worth while
A kiss that you ought to—regret.
There was many a lip you had kissed ere mine,
Did you think I did not know?
But the kisses you gave—I remember them now.
But, like others, they had to go.
But, dear, did you think when you touched my lips
And told me your love was true,
That never a kiss I had known ere then—
That night when I first kissed you?
Oh, there's many a kiss to remember,

MR. CHANG REPLIES

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Dear Mr. Editor; If you believe as I do that some of your readers are thoroughly bored and heartily sick of this persistent Sing Song girl propaganda please by all means throw this letter into your waste paper basket. I shall not complain. I write because some of your correspondents are kicking because I have left them in the cold.

Speaking about defenseless sing song girls they seem to have lots of "defenders" as your correspondence column would indicate. I have been wondering, however, if there are other persons who might be equally keen defenders of these "defenseless" (?) girls. I venture to mention a few for the information of some of your foreign readers. I don't think it is necessary to inform any of our Chinese friends as they all know that a sing song girl is a "pin-tse," a prostitute.

First of all there are the habitual frequenters of the sing song girl houses, who would suffer like opium smokers without opium to smoke, if the houses were closed. The public can form their own opinion as regards this class.

Secondly there are the "sing song girl house parasites" who would lose their means of livelihood if the houses were closed. I do not mean the nyang-yee or doo-tsia or sao-thaung-woo-chu but a class of people who pose as da-sac, yet in reality no higher than the sao-thaung or commonly called in Chinese "the tortoise," the house servants.

This class is well dressed, carefully groomed and glibtongued, and their faces are powdered and in some cases rouged. Their business is to get people interested in the sing song girls so that they may keep up the feasts and gambling parties to the profit of themselves as well as the owners of the girls. (It is the owners of the girls and not the girls themselves who benefit in the financial way). They live and fatten on the houses and enjoy (?) like the paying once but themselves never pay a single cent. They are tolerated because they bring business to the house.

Yet another class is the poo-chu-taung. I refer to those who victimize the girls and their owners because of their ignorance. Once in a while, and some times very often, an "election" of sing song girls would be held under their auspices. To be the "president" of the sing song girls of Shanghai one must have so many votes, and to be "premier" so many less votes, etc. Now how can the ignorant girls secure the necessary votes to qualify. That is where the parasites come in. The girls are usually willing to pay for their votes. It is laughable to see some of the Wung-sungs soaked by the parasites in this manner. Whether the girls themselves or the wung-sungs who pay for the tickets the majority of the tickets are paid, and where the money goes to?

Then, there are those whose business brings them to the rescue of the sing song girls—ruin is the proper word in place of the word rescue. Who is engineering the campaign for the sing song girl houses in an attempt to mislead the rate-payers into removing the ban on sing song girl houses? Certainly the girls or their owners are uncapable of doing it. Who has taught the girls to say that they are pure sing song girls and not prostitutes, thus successfully securing immunity against municipal council law? And who gets that big fat roll for securing a suitable locality to run a sing song girl house without fear of law?

Lastly there are those who imagine they can secure orders by going to sing sing girl houses with the Chinese habitual frequenters or parasites or others. Pity these misguided business men (?). Go over the list of Shanghai's substantial business men and see how many frequenters of sing song girl houses you can find. If business can be secured in the sing song girl houses then there is no need to have high rentaled offices. If there is no other wholesome way of securing business than going to the sing song houses and using girls and wine as bait then heaven have mercy on this business man.

In closing I suggest, Mr. Editor, you ask some one to write a review of the sing song girls traffic. It is more interesting reading than propaganda.

Thanking you for your valuable space, Yours truly,

T. Y. CHANG.

Shanghai, May 2, 1923.

RUSSIAN REFUGEES

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir,—With the influx of over 200 more destitute Russians from Gensan, Korea, and the probable arrival of new groups of them from Southern Manchuria, the situation is growing critical. Among the new arrivals there are a number of invalids and all of them are in dire need of clothing, linen and footwear.

The means of the Russian Benevolent Society are nearly exhausted, in spite of the generous assistance on the part of Shanghai's foreign community. Sanitary considerations necessitate providing more or less healthful quarters for these people. Most of the refugees being men, there is—in first place—a great want of men's clothing, underwear and footwear.

The Russian Benevolent Society requests the foreign community of Shanghai to donate cast-off clothing underwear and footwear, for men especially. In order to facilitate the collecting of such donations, it is suggested that those who are willing to give away some of their cast-off clothing, underwear and footwear, be kind enough to drop a postcard to that effect, addressing same to the Russian Benevolent Society, c-o Bureau for Russian Affairs, 1 Whangpoo Road. On the day and hour indicated duly authorised collectors will call at the address given and receive the things donated from the head-boy of the respective house against a receipt of the Russian Benevolent Society. I am, etc.,

Mme. E. Grosse.

Promoting International Friendship

To say that Harvard University is to exchange tutors with Oxford and Cambridge universities may appear to carry little interest except for those of academic bent. International friendship is, however, directly promoted. Consequently, wide attention to a project of this kind is merited. This exchange of tutors will mean the exchange of ideas internationally. It will mean another important, though seemingly small, step toward accord among nations. While politicians harangue over international policy and safety; while financiers figure international obligations and expediency; while economic chieftains apply their philosophy; while social experts issue warnings and appeals, and a large portion of the public press plays to the roaring threats of more and bigger wars—quietly, intelligently, effectually, and on a gradually extending scale, educational groups in many lands are clasping hands and gripping firmly.

Professors, fellows, teachers, and students have been welcomed back and forth between countries in increasing numbers for some years. "I do not believe that one can overestimate the good accomplished in the development of international good will resulting from the exchange of representative scholars between the United States and other countries," says the director of the Institute of International Education in his annual report. Professors, fellows, teachers, students, and now tutors—when men of this character, trained in sound reasoning and solid in the defense of ideals, freely exchange visits in all parts of the world, the promise of better things is made substantial.

The tutorial system has been in operation in the two great English universities for a century. The Harvard system was inaugurated in 1912. At Oxford and Cambridge a tutor has an oversight over practically all of the student's training and activities. Attendance at lectures is far from compulsory. At Harvard a tutor has an oversight over only a part of the student's training, and attendance at lectures is quite strictly required. The system as developing in the American institution is not modeled after that of the English, but it is an adaption. The main purpose of both, however, is to get a more individualised instruction, a closer contact between professor and student. It is natural to expect that the exchanging tutors will have certain reactions as their experiment progresses. These reactions will call forth discussions of mutual value to all concerned.

The exchange of tutors will therefore, mean more than all else the exchange of ideas. The exchange of ideas leads at once, of course, to the mutual appreciation of ideas. "That is a good idea," says one to another. Obviously the one not only gains by making the good idea of the other his own, but he admires the other for having had the idea. A richer and more understanding friendship is thus accrued.—Christian Science Monitor.

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

The Advance Of Civilisation

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

If you want to know the secret of the enormous advances that the civilised world has made in recent times, do not look for it anywhere outside the orbit of civilised man himself. He has been his own accumulator of power. From reaction with his fellows he has derived the driving energy needed for all of these marvels.

It is the rapid growth of the population of educated minds that has produced the acceleration of human progress, which is now so great that it makes some people, through that kind of superstition which wonder can produce, shake their heads and say: "these are the signs of the approach of the last day."

On the contrary they are the signs of a new day. Which has as yet only dawned. It is the increasing pressure exerted by knowledge, acting in every direction upon surrounding minds, that drives the human piston. Why have these achievements come so late? Because the pressure was not sooner raised to the compulsive degree.

Why in the past have advances in government, society, industry, invention, always come in successive periods or in shoals, often very wide apart? Because every time the pressure was rapidly exhausted on account of sufficient educated individuals to maintain it.

Look at the astonishing simultaneous growth of population and of distributed intelligence in the civilised lands of the globe in recent years, for therein you will see the source of the hitherto unequalled driving power that is now forcing us to heights of achievement not before attainable, and causing them to be reached, one so quickly after another that it is a breathless sight to watch the conquest.

Between 1815 and 1915 Europe increased in population from 175,000,000 to 450,000,000; the United States from 9,000,000,000 to more than 100,000,000. During the same time the spread of general knowledge and education can only be described as prodigious, especially in the United States, and very great in central and western Europe and the British isles.

Every trained mind though the training be but partial and imperfect, reacts upon the general mind to stimulate it, and through this general stimulation come the special incitement of particularly gifted minds to exercise their powers. There must be large numbers behind, pressing the leaders forward. Those who have a little knowledge want more. Their curiosity creates an incessant demand for progress, and holds up the hands of those who actually make the progress.

It was this pressure from educated minds that became strong enough in western Europe at the end of the fifteenth century to drive Columbus to America. In the early years of the twentieth century it had become so powerful on both sides of the Atlantic that it sent Peary through to the North Pole and Amundsen and Scott to the South Pole—adventures purely of the intellectual type, undertaken to gratify the insatiable curiosity of thinking man, and which never would have been undertaken if they had not been approved, supported and urged on by millions whose intelligent interest they aroused.

Lately there have been expressions of alarm over the crowds flocking into the higher institutions of learning, and croakings over the imaginary danger that with so many persons wanting college education, the country won't be able to stand the expense.

The fact is that this demand for education is only another symptom of the pressure of which I have been talking. It is an assurance that this time it will not be as formerly, when the impulse could not be maintained long enough to cause a continuous advance, because of the lack of numbers behind the front; but that now for a long time to come, there will be no relaxation, because not only have we the needed numercial force but the numbers are still increasing with accelerated velocity.

The advice to every young man and woman should be: Get all the education you can and be not discouraged if you cannot hold the pace with specially gifted competitors, for you, too, are living cells in the great body of human society, and your function is indispensable and highly honorable even though it be only to aid from behind the pressure that drives the front to the expanding victory of mind over matter.

"What Does It Mean?"

Under this caption The Japan Advertiser of Tokio published last Sunday the subjoined significant article on Admiral Anderson's recent visit to Yokohama on the United States flag-cruiser Huron.

The boycott of Admiral Anderson by the Japanese Press gains added significance from the fact that he is probably the greatest wireless expert in the American Navy and when in Peking last summer made a remarkable speech at the International Press Club advocating the rapid development of American wireless throughout China. The boycott therefore may mean more than meets the eye:

"It is not often that the Japanese are rude to the friendly stranger within their gates, and seldom does the enlightened press of a country fail to reflect accurately the feelings of its people. We have come reluctantly to the conviction that both of these derelictions must be charged against the Japanese press for a strange silence it has maintained during the last week.

"Nine days ago a distinguished visitor came to Japan to extend the hand of friendship. He came as the Commander-in-Chief of the Asiatic Fleet of a great state whose sincere friendship Japan now has and should have, a state whose friendship it is unquestionably to the interest of Japan to retain now and in the discernible future. During the nine days that the United States cruiser Huron, flying the flag of Admiral Anderson, has been in the nearby port of Yokohama, no mention, as far as we have been able to discover, has been made in the Japanese press of Tokio of the arrival of the ship or the Admiral, nor of the many entertainments given for or by the Admiral and the ship. Japanese naval officials have been the soul of kindness and courtesy, but the Japanese press of the capital has seemed to ignore alike the presence of a distinguished visitor and the friendship for Japan that prompted his visit. It does not seem possible that this silence has been due to the inability of the Japanese press to estimate the value of this event as an item of news. The Japanese press is not far behind that of any other country in its appreciation of news values and in its enterprise in securing for its readers information of interest and significance. The glance of contempt is well recognised in both Orient and Occident, and we do not understand how such unanimity of action could have come about except through a conspiracy of silence, or how it could be intended except as an affront to the friendly nation whose uniform Admiral Anderson wears.

"We do not desire to impugn the motives which have actuated the Japanese press, which we must admit we do not understand, but the results we deeply deplore. As a newspaper we regret that our Japanese contemporaries should have so far transgressed the bounds of hospitality as to have been rude to a prominent visitor on a mission of friendship. As a newspaper which realizes the importance of sincere, reciprocal friendship between Japan and the United States, we are surprised and hurt that the extended hand of friendship has been ignored. We cannot but feel, with real apprehension, that this conspiracy of silence may result in raising questions as to the sincerity of Japan in her protestations of friendliness toward America."—Far Eastern Times.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE SETTLE TSINGTAO DISPUTE

Mail For Tsingtao Will Be Routed Via Shanghai In Future

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, April 26.—A local paper this morning contained news of considerable interest to landowners. It was known that the Chinese government felt the Japanese government was rushing the land leasing business during the days of the Washington Conference. June 2, 1922 was agreed on as the date when the validity of such leases would cease; after that date all leases were considered illegal, and in many cases such leases have been cancelled. Leases previous to that date are good for ten years with the privilege of renewal for another thirty years. Recently the Japanese Consul and the representatives of the Chinese Government have had many discussions as to the leases granted after June 2, 1922, on which Japanese have begun construction, in some cases almost to completion. The fairness of the Chinese is shown in the agreement just reached that where such construction has been made on such lands it shall be recognised as good.

VISTING SHIPS

The U.S.S. Black Hawk, Pecos, and Finch are in harbor, and next month the Huron with eighteen destroyers are expected. They are just in time for the cherry blossom season which is now at its best. Chinese and others remember with much pleasure the visit of the Asheville in December, when the transfer was made. The American marines by their behavior made a fine impression on our people; the Chinese especially seemed grateful.

The English speaking community has organised an International Community Song Service, which meets every Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. We have had several addresses in recent Sundays, some of the speakers being Dr. Chandler of the Presbyterian Mission, Dr. W. B. Glass, Dr. S. E. Stephens, Dr. David Bryan of the Baptist Mission, and Bishop Scott, who was here for Easter.

It will be good news for some in northern China that some mail routing abuses have been corrected. Mail for Tsingtao has in recent months frequently been sent to Mukden and finally was lodged at Chefoo till a passing steamer brought it away. One American took up the matter with the postmasters in San Francisco and in Seattle. The following letter is self explanatory.

"Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of February 6 in regard to the routing of mail for Tsingtao; I am very glad to say that this matter has already been the subject of correspondence between the two countries and hereafter mail for Tsingtao will be routed via Shanghai.

"I assure you that information of this kind is always appreciated, as we are anxious to give the best service possible. Yours sincerely, (Signed) Edgar Battle, Postmaster (Seattle)."

Mack Sennett Comedies To Be Pathe Pictures

An announcement of great interest to moving-picture patrons has been received by the Shanghai office of Pathe-Orient, from Pathe-Exchange Inc., New York, to the effect that Mack Sennett, the famous producer of comedies, and well-known to the Shanghai public, has been signed up by Pathe to produce a series of comedies during the current year. This series is to consist of thirteen two-reel comedies, as well as another series of eight two-reel comedies starring the comedian Ben Turpin.

Ben Turpin is no new star that has just blazed into prominence in moving-picture firmament. He has an envied reputation of many years' standing, and is well-known as "The funny man with the squint." His appearance in the Pathe series of releases will be welcomed by many who have been missing this universal favorite and who will be glad to see him on the screen again. Aside from the personality of this comedy star, the name of Mack Sennett, owing to his unchallenged reputation as one of the leading comedy-producers in America, is sufficient guarantee for the excellence of this series of Pathe comedies.

It has been the opinion of many, distributors and exhibitors alike, that the comedy portion of motion-picture entertainment, as compared with the development in dramatic fields, has been seriously neglected during the last two or three years by the entire moving-picture industry. This recent move of Pathe's was made for the most part to offset this criticism, for in addition to the Mack Sennett comedies, Pathe is continuing its series of Hal Roach comedies, headed by the famous Harold Lloyd "Specials." All these comedies are being produced with the object in mind that each and every one of them is to be the outstanding feature of each program upon which they appear. This has been the case so far with the Harold Lloyd comedies produced by Hal Roach, and the reputation of Pathe comedies, it is hoped, will be more than maintained by those in preparation by Mack Sennett.
